So, the utilisation of compressibility of a gas in hydraulic accumulators is for storing fluids. That's why HYDAC bases its bladder accumulators on this principle, using nitrogen as the compressible medium. Indeed, a bladder accumulator consists of a fluid section and a gas section with the bladder acting as the gas-proof screen.

The Hawe HPS series accumulator is a piston accumulator, designed to separate the compressible gas cushion from the hydraulic fluid. The accumulator type HPS supports or increases the pump delivery flow or stores
