Where should I install my inverter?

Avoid places with direct sunlight. Installation on the outside near the coast is problematic for corrosion reasons, but inland this is no longer a problem. But will still use a small sealed shed as advised above. The inverter, even one with IP65 or better, I would still try find a place indoors.

Are goodwe es inverters IP65?

IP65 is what Goodwe are claiming for their ES inverters. Another issue that may trouble some is aesthetics. Even if you have nice, modern, and modern LOOKING gear, you still end up with an inverter on a wall, some batteries, and a whole lot of trunking. Mine is neatly installed, but it wouldn't make a nice conversation piece in the living room.
